Tip #53

Management Review and Continuous Improvement

Strong leadership ensures lessons turn into lasting improvements.

Review → Action → Progress

Management review means structured leadership process to:

- Evaluate performance & lessons learned.
- Allocate resources.
- Drive continuous improvement.

Continuous Improvement Is Never “One and Done.”

- Review audits & investigations.
- Track corrective actions.
- Set new safety objectives.
- Communicate outcomes.

Safety Grows When Leadership Stays Engaged

Without leadership review, lessons fade and improvements stall. Management attention keeps safety moving forward.

Without Review, Lessons Never Stick

One company investigated incidents but never tracked corrective actions. The same problems persisted until leadership mandated formal reviews.

Improvement Is A Journey, Not A Destination

Management review turns lessons into lasting improvement.

- Executives: Lead reviews and commit resources.
- Supervisors: Track actions locally.
- Employees: Provide feedback and support.
